Mitchell, Stans win freedom in conspiracy case

NEW YORK (AP) — A jury that started out "screaming and yelling across the table" has acquitted former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and onetime Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans of all charges in their criminal conspiracy case.

The nine men and three women came to unanimous agreement Sunday af-ternoon after 26 hours of deliberation

Senate receives bill to extend wage-price curbs

WASHINGTON (AP) - Antiinflation legislation authorizing another year of life for wageprice controls is being introduced in the Senate today over the opposition of big business and labor.

A Senate vote on the bill is expected later in the week. The bill's provisions would be retroactive to May 1; current wageprice-control authority expires

April 30—Tuesday night.
Sens. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine Adlaı E. Stevenson III, D-Ill., and Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., say it was fear of worsening inflation that prompted them to offer the bill to extend wageprice control authority for another

The measure sponsored by Muskie, Stevenson, Javits and 10 others would authorize the President to reimpose wageprice controls on any segment of the economy that presented a danger of serious inflation.

The Senate Democratic Caucus has urged action to retain control authority but the bill still faces a stiff fight on the Senate floor. Even if the Senate passes the bill, the House would be expected to require at least a few weeks before acting. The Senate planned to continue debate today on a bill requiring states to reform their automobile-insurance systems in favor of no-fault, a plan under which an accident victim is compensated by his own insurance company regardless of who caused the

A final vote on no-fault is scheduled Wednesday.

The House faced a vote today on a resolution authorizing another $979,000 for the Judiciary Committee, about half of it earmarked for the investigation of whether President Nixon should be impeached. Also on the House agenda was a compromise bill establishing a Federal Energy Emergency Administration to replace the Federal Energy Office, which was created by presidential

House debate is planned for Tuesday on a bill appropriating $2.27 billion for energy research, including $1.5 billion for Atomic Energy.

The bill for the first time brings together all energy-research-anddevelopment funds that in the past had been contained in various agency bills, ranging from the Interior Department to the Atomic Energy Commission.

Also in the energy field, the House Ways and Means Committee is expected to finish work this week on a bill reforming the oil-industry tax struc-

that the former cabinet colleagues were innocent of conspiracy, obstruction of justice and perjury

Both were accused of trying to block a Securities and Exchange Commission investigation of financier Robert L. Vesco, in return for Vesco's secret $200,000 cash contribution to President Nixon's re-election campaign.

Referring to Vesco and his aides, Juror Clarence Brown said after the verdict: "They wanted to get something, but I don't think that Stans and Mitchell ever fell for it."

The jury's forewoman, Sybil Kucharski, said, "We were off in little groups screaming and yelling across the table" when the deliberations began. She said the jury was split even on the conspiracy count, so it turned to the six separate perjury counts against Mitchell and Stans

"After looking through all the perjury charges, the rest was easy," Miss Kucharski said. "We figured there couldn't be any conspiracy if there was no perjury.

The verdict brought a smile to the face of the normally undemon-zative Mitchell. But it brought no legal surcease. He faces trial in Washington at a still unset date on almost identical charges in connection with the cover-up of the Watergate break-in. Leon Jaworski, the Watergate special prosecutor, still is studying part of the Nixon campaign financing operation which Stans headed.

"Our faith was resting with a very, very fine jury," Mitchell told a news conference in the U.S. Courthouse. 'They were a cross section of the people and they were representative of

"If there is one place I am firmly convinced you can get justice, it's from the American people. I have great faith in America and that's why I love this country."

Stans was shedding tears of relief by the time the lengthy 15-count verdict had been read. "I've been reborn," he told a newsman. "I was innocent all along, but it's good to have it confirmed."

In Washington, Deputy White House Press Secretary Gerald Warren said of President Nixon: "The President was very pleased for the two men and for their families.

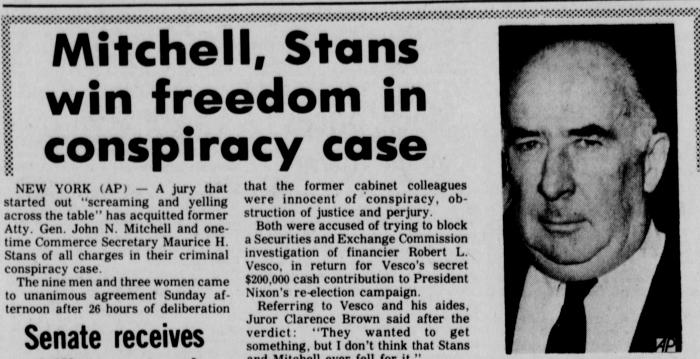

Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., chairman of the Senate Watergate committee, said he sees no connection between the verdict and future Watergate cases. 'Each case stands on its own bottom,' he said.

Vesco, who was indicted with Stans and Mitchell and lives in exile in Costa Rica, called the verdict the "first fair verdict I've heard in a long time.' The chief prosecutor, Asst. U.S. Atty. John R. Wing, was deeply disappointed. Asked how he felt about the verdict, he replied: "Rotten! If we could have gotten Vesco back it would have been different. It was absolutely not a waste. When there's evidence that people committed a crime, those crimes investigated and prosecuted."

Vesco fled the country in the midst of an SEC investigation of his corporate activities and all efforts to bring him back failed.

Mitchell and Stans were charged with conspiring to obstruct an SEC fraud investigation of Vesco, who has corporate interests in such diverse locales as Hong Kong, Beirut and the

Nixon to present impeachment views

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Nixon will make a nationally televised and broadcast address at 9 p.m. EDT today to announce his response to a House Judiciary Committee subpoena and "to disclose other decisions in relation to the Watergate matter," the White House said.

Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren, in announcing plans for Nixon's prime time address to the nation, refused to say what Nixon's response would be to the committee's subpoena for 42 presidential con-

And Warren also refused to elaborate on what he meant by "other decisions" the President has made.

But his wording indicated Nixon had settled upon a course intended to blunt further requests and subpoenas for White House tapes.

Indications were that Nixon would disclose he was ready to give the committee, which now is considering impeachment resolutions, a set of edited transcripts of the conversations, rather than the tapes themselves.

But White House officials continued to refuse to say precisely what would be given the committee, or to say whether Nixon would propose a method for the committee to verify authenticity of the

Nixon advisers, seeking ways to emphasize what they described as the massive nature of the response, were considering the possibility of stacking the transcripts on the President's desk during the television address.

The White House said Nixon reached his decision Sunday and was considering a nationwide broadcast to disclose it. The White House refused to confirm news reports that Nixon had decided on the broadcast.

As the week began, two top Republicans said it would be inadequate for Nixon to turn over transcripts but not subpoenaed tape recordings to the House Judiciary former Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson and Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., in separate television interviews Sunday. Nixon spent much of the weekend at his Camp David, Md., retreat, working on his response. He had scheduled his return for today but flew back unexpectedly by helicopter Sunday night.

Sources at the White House began putting out word Friday that the President might make a television address Monday night. The subject is certain to be the escalating demands for material from White House files. The committee has subpoenaed tapes of 42 presidential conversations and a response is due by 10 a.m. EDT

In addition, a subpoena requested by special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski that demanded tapes and records of 64 presidential conversations calls for a response Thur-

District Gov. Robert Haigler's theme for the past year has been "Enjoy Rotary More in '74" and those at the conference did just that as they attended business sessions, heard interesting and inspiring speakers, enjoyed social events ending with a formal dance to the music of Les Elgart and his band Saturday night. The conference ended Sunday afternoon.

Six Washington C.H. Rotary Club members won prizes in the golf outing held Friday at the Jack Nicklaus Golf Center. They were Howard Miller, La Verne Haugen, Carl Elberfeld, the Rev. Mark Dove, Carl Mason and Dr. Jack

MARCIA SEIFRIED, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Seifried, had an important part in the Saturday morning session when she described her stay in Finland last year as a Rotary Club exchange student. Students going to other countries for this year's stay were introduced and 20 Rotary exchange students, including Walter Ayub, of Washington Senior High School, also took part in the program. Also during the Saturday morning meeting, Toby Pearson, of the London Rotary Club, presented a check for $13,267.85 to Vince Heidler, president of the Xenia Rotary Club, for use in that tornado-ravaged city. That total, with more yet to come, was contributed by Rotarians in District 667 in a campaign established by Peason.

Emotional highlight of the weekend conference was the Saturday luncheon address by Lt. Col. William Baughn, a prisoner of war in North Vietnam for six years prior to his release in March, 1973. Col. Baughn, a Piqua native now stationed at Maxwell Air Force Base in Alabama, told the audience "we never lost our faith in our country" and that even in the worst of times the prisoners of war retained their sense of humor.

PHIL GROVER, president of the Washington C.H. Rotary Club, acted as moderator Saturday for a panel discussion "Crisis of Confusion in Fuel, Food and Finance." James Slack, Dayton division manager for the Standard Oil Co., gave the oil companies' side of the energy crisis. He said that if the government would take over the oil companies as has been suggested, that this country would take big step down the road to socialism.

Ken Reish, associate dean of the Ohio University college of agriculture, told Rotarians that "food in the United States is still the biggest bargain in the world." He emphasized the potential of research to increase grain and livestock production in order to alleviate the possibility of famine that has been predicted for many parts of the world. #### Glenn, Metzenbaum both predict victory

By The Associated Press The campaign staffs of John Glenn and U. S. Senator Howard M. Metzenbaum today played the game of who's more confident of winning the battle for the Democratic nomination to the Senate in the May 7 primary. Both camps have begun issuing optimistic statements to exhort campaign workers in the final week before voters decide who will represent the party against the Republican choice in the November general elec-

Glenn's campaign manager, Stephen J. Kovacik, said in Columbus the mood among his workers was "buoyant optimism." Metzenbaum responded that his prospects for capturing the party's nomination looked brighter and that he was gaining momentum. The Cleveland businessman said his optimism was buoyed by a Cleveland Plain Dealer poll that showed him ahead of Glenn.

Metzenbaum said the poll "confirms to me the sense of momentum I felt campaigning the last week." He said the most significant aspect of the survey was that he led Glenn among blue collar workers.

Glenn, who has claimed to hold the lead in the public opinion polls, questioned the accuracy of the sampling. He said he wanted to see the sampling made by the newspaper and a detailed breakdown of the poll before commenting.

He said a poll taken by the Jeffrey Hart organization in March showed him leading Metzenbaum. He said he doubted the tide had changed so dramatically. Despite the poll, Kovacik said, "All the signs are there for a Glenn upset." But Glenn campaigner Andrew Vitali said, "I think our workers will work even a little harder now. It is possible some complacency has crept in."

Metzenbaum was appointed to the unexpired term of now Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe and has been endorsed by the Ohio Democratic party for the full-six-year term.

But Kovacik said, "When you have the governor - the titular party leader in this state - taking pot-shots at the party's endorsed candidate, that candidate's in trouble." Gilligan last week upheld Glenn's attempt to attract GOP donations despite criticism by Metzenbaum.

The candidates appeared together Saturday night at the Ohio Associated Press Broadcasters Association meeting at Kings Island and at a joint interview on WLW-C-TV in Columbus Sunday.

In the television interview, both Glenn and Metzenbaum lambasted the major oil companies for their role in the energy crisis.

Glenn blamed the companies for 'unconscionable high prices' and berated the Nixon administration and the Democratic-controlled Congress for "letting this happen."

Metzenbaum said the major companies dictated government policies regarding oil imports.

A cold front across the upper Great Lakes is expected to push its way into northwestern Ohio by tonight and into southern Ohio by Tuesday, the National Weather Service reports.

Showers and thundershowers are forecast for northern counties early today with a chance during the afternoon in central and southern sections. Rain, heavy at times, is likely over most of the state tonight.

Daytime highs will be in the 70s in the north today, climbing into the 80s in central and southern portions. Lows will fall into the 40s and 50s.

The outlook for Tuesday and Wednesday is a little cooler, with lowering chances for precipitation.

Fair and cool Wednesday and Thursday. Cloudy with a chance of showers Friday. Highs in the 50s Wednesday, warming to from the mid 60s to low 70s by Friday. Lows from the upper 30s to mid 40s.

City school board posts sports staff

Athletic assignments for the 1974-75 year were completed at a special meeting of the Washington C.H. Board of Education Monday morning.

Only one change from this year's staff was announced. The position of ticket manager was abandoned after Clyde Cramer submitted a letter of resignation. Instead, the responsibilities of the ticket manager will fall on the newly-created position of assistant athletic director for which Carmen Frogale was employed. John R. Bane will continue as athletic director, and the coaching staffs will be the same as this year. Mrs. Nicola Eyre will again coach the girls basketball and softball teams.

The coaching staffs are as follows: FOOTBALL — Maurice Pfeifer, head coach. Jon Creamer, Richard Roth, John Skinner and Dale Lynch, assistants.

BASKETBALL - Gary Shaffer, head coach; John Skinner, reserve coach; Virgil Morgan, eighth grade, and Jon Creamer, seventh grade.

BASEBALL - Rodger Mickle, head coach, and Dale Lynch, reserve coach. Richard Roth will head the track team, and Gary Shaffer will coach golf.

NEW YORK (AP) - Prices edged lower in slow trading in the stock market today as investors awaited President Nixon's schedule address on national television tonight.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 5.17 at 829.47, and declines held a slight lead over advances on the New York Stock

Brokers said high, and still rising, interest rates helped dissipate a moderate technical rally that began Friday and continued into the first few minutes of trading today.

Trans World Airlines, unchanged at 101/8, was the Big Board volume leader. A 142,400-share block changed hands at 10. The airline said recently it did not expect to make a profit this year because of high jetfuel costs.

Seek to avert execution of leftists

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) - The military government is considering appeals to commute the death sentences given five leftists who could be executed by firing squads in the next 48

The Roman Catholic bishop of Rancagua province addressed a plea for clemency to the junta president, Gen. Augusto Pinochet

Another appeal came from Joseph P. Morray of Corvallis, Ore., chairman of the Fair Trial Committee for Chilean Political Prisoners, based in the United States. He handed his petition Sunday to an officer in San Fernando, 100 miles south of Santiago, where the men were tried Friday

The officer told Morray the garrison commander, Col. Jose Castro, would decide "within several days" whether the sentences would be carried out. There is no appeal beyond the garrison commander

Castro told defense attorneys, "as a Roman Catholic, I have immense respect for human life," and promised to review the death sentences "calmly and with much attention.

Latin American ambassadors attending a recent conference of the Organization of American States in Atlanta, Ga., sent an urgent appeal earlier to the junta to stop executions.

The five condemned men were found guilty of trying to organize armed guerrilla groups with the ultimate goal of establishing a Communist dictatorship in Chile. Two are 20-year-old university students, two were militant leaders of peasant groups and the fifth headed the land reform program in the San Fernando area

Military courts condemned at least 96 persons to death immediately after the coup last September that ousted the late President Salvador Allende, but Gen. Pinochet reportedly ordered executions stopped in mid-January.

WASHINGTON (AP) - A Khmer Rouge rebel leader who is treated with all the deference of a chief of state by Peking is emerging from the shadowy jungles of Cambodia.

He is Khieu Samphan, a lean, boyfaced, 44-year-old French-educated Marxist, once marked for execution because of Communist activities by Prince Norodom Sihanouk, the deposed leader of Cambodia now living as an exile in the Peoples Republic of China.

Samphan has an array of titlesmember of the Politburo of the Khmer (Cambodian) Communist party, acting prime minister, defense minister and chief of staff of the Khmer liberation armed forces.

He is part of a massive program estimated by U.S. experts to be costing Peking at least $500 million a year, furnishing the Khmer Rouge movement with arms, supplies and a government complete with ministers.

Although Samphan is war minister and chief of staff, he also has been equipped with a Chinese jet airliner and currently is visiting Albania, Algiers and Romania with two other highlevel associates.

American officials say it is possible that at some later date Samphan may be the man who will negotiate a settlement of the Cambodian war with the Lon Nol government.

100,000 attend Jewish rally; hear Jackson attack Soviets

NEW YORK (AP) - "The Kremlin the speakers' platform at Dag Hamcan hear us now. The conscience of the free world is aroused," Sen. Henry M. Jackson told thousands rallying to protest restrictive Soviet emigration policies toward Jews.

Police estimated more than 100,000 persons in the crowd of protesters

"The message is clear: Let them go," Jackson said, referring to the barriers on Russian Jews wishing to emigrate to Israel.

Jackson, a Democrat from Washington, is the author of a bill to deny trade concessions to the Soviet Union until it lifts its emigration

The raily began with a march down Fifth Avenue, led by a float fashioned to look like a prison guard tower complete with young people dressed as guards and toting plastic machine

The rally was interrupted briefly by demonstrators who attempted to storm marskjold Plaza, near the United Nations:

Police said the demonstrators were members of the Jewish Defense League, a militant organization. Police turned back the group and arrested one person on charges of disorderly conduct and resisting arrest.

The chief Sephardic rabbi of Israel, Ovadia Yossef, addressed the rally in

"I appeal to all people imbued with a sense of justice not to be silent or passive and to do their utmost for the Jews of the Soviet Union and in lands such as Syria where they suffered. If a Jew is in pain any place in the world, every Jew feels that pain."

The five-hour rally, called Solidarity Sunday for Soviet Jewry, was sponsored by the Greater New York Conference on Soviet Jewry, an organization of 79 agencies.

Wave of marriage contracts under study by professors

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)-A Case Western Reserve University professor says today's brides and grooms often don't say "I do" until they have said what "I'll do" and "You'll do" through a lawver

Sometimes the couples even spell out timetables for who makes the bed and who takes out the garbage, Marvin B. Sussman says.

Sussman, director of the university's Institute on the Family and the Bureaucratic Society, has a grant to study the new wave in marriage contracts.

He advertised for couples willing to submit copies of the contracts for use in the study. Working with him are Hugh A. Ross, a professor in Case Western's Law School, and Betty E. Cogswell, a University of North Carolina professor.

The ultradetailed pacts sometimes are called joke contracts because they virtually are unworkable, Sussman says. But he says others are serious in detailing plans for children, privacy, housekeeping tasks, money, sex-and how to end the contract if it comes to that. Some may permit infidelity, others may make it grounds for divorce, he says. Older newlyweds may set up protections for money and property from previous marriages or specify how to handle inheritances relative to previous families. Under one contract he has seen, the professor says, each party was to bear separate names. It also spelled out whose family name was to be used by any children.

There haven't been enough of the contracts yet to know what provisions will be upheld by courts, the professor says, so one of the questions the study is to help answer is whether they are

Sussman says the discussion of a contract after marriage could clarify what each partner expects and thus save a marriage.

Abundant energy—and its use

Thanks to the stimulus of the fuel shortage it is now a widely accepted position that society must strive to develop clean, abundant energy sources. This is regarded by many as a kind of first principle. It is seen as a necessary step to replace the dwindling reserves of fossil fuels upon which we have mainly depended over the past many decades

The importance of this is not lessened by recognizing that abundant energy will not be a panacea for the world's social and economic problems. The key lies in proper use of that energy for the benefit of mankind.

This point has been cogently made by John P. Holdren, an assistant professor of energy and resources at the University of California in Berkeley. Speaking of those envisioned sources of clean, abundant energy as not an end in . themselves but as means to an end, he asked the other day: "If we used these tools to render the world into a global Los Angeles, would many of us be pleased with the result?"

The need is for energy sources that will supply a major portion of the world's requirements far into the future. Holdren sees three possibilities: solar energy, nuclear fission and nuclear fusion. He considers solar energy the best of the three because the potential is almost unlimited, environmental harm could be held to a minimum, and harnessing the sun is technically

But like most others who have needed, at very least as a supgeneration. He leans toward fusion as being less dangerous and environmentally cleaner than the fission process, but notes that commercial fusion power before the year 2000 is unlikely.

These three promising energy sources are mentioned as a reminder that means of obtaining cheap, clean, abundant energy to replace that from traditional sources are within our grasp. The matter of how this energy is to be used remains.

A University of California news release on Prof. Holdren's views summed up thus: "The primary question, he believes, is not whether we can achieve abundant energy, but what sort of society will we

That is a subject to which all thinking persons had better address

THESE DAYS . . . by John Chamberlain In defense of General Motors

generations make when it comes to rewriting - and continuing to distort our history

Back in the early years of the century, no self-respecting muckraking newspaper or magazine had a good word to say about the electric trolley systems of the country, or the steam railroads. The trolleys had been sneaked over on municipalities at great cost by traction ring magnates such as Charles T. Yerkes of Chicago who had bribed legislators in order to get franchises and then unloaded their decrepit rolling stock for highly in-flated sums. (A "conspiracy" to replace the horse?)

The "traction ring" was no better than the "railroad octopus," against which Sen. Hiram Johnson of California ran every six years for of-fice. This was "liberal" history as it used to be written.

Of course, the electric trolley and the steam railroad did serve the general public, the liberal historians notwithstanding. But when the downtown areas began to get crowded back in the '20s, trolleys and the steam railroad became uneconomical. The trolley couldn't reach out into all the suburbs; the steam railroad couldn't come into big cities through underground tunnels without choking the passengers with flagrantly non-ecological smoke.

With the trolley lines falling into bankruptcy, something had to be done. Detroit had an answer: the Ford Model T and Model A, and Bill Knudsen's Chevrolet were there to take the people home to the expanding suburbs or to meet the new electrified commuter trains.

IT ALL HAPPENED because of the new fluid patterns of life in the '20s of this century. No conspiracy whatsoever was involved. Yet an antimonopoly subcommittee of the U.S. Senate has just listened to an alleged historian named Bradford C. Snell

Boy, what a difference a couple of 'make the cheapest of cheap-shot charges about a conspiracy supposedly masterminded by the General Motors Corp. to "destroy"; our old urban and interurban electric trolley systems in order to replace them with buses. Just for idiotic lagniappe, alleged historian Snell also sneaked in some words about GM's "plotting" to replace the steam engine and the catenaryoverhead electric locomotive with diesel locomotives. And, though it had nothing whatsoever to do with antimonopoly in America, the aforementioned Snell accused GM of using its Opel plant in Germany to make war equipment for the Nazis.

The unconscionable thing about the Snell idiocies is that they were printed up and put out by the government.

Now ordinarily our big corporations take the most unfair allegations lying down. They had allowed Ralph Nader and the so-called consumerists to malign them without stint over all these years of "liberalism."

A shell-shocked GM had had to wait for years for Sen. Abe Ribicoff's committee to contradict Ralph Nader on the supposed danger of the Corvair rear-engine car, and by the time the Corvair was given a clean bill of health, it had been destroyed as Detroit's answer to the comparable Volkswagen.

I have never understood why GM didn't sue Nader for a billion or so in triple damages.

business of making buses. Listen to New York's very liberal Mayor Fiorello La Guardia speaking back in 1936. Said Fiorello: "Bus operation in place of trolleys is not only a boon to the citizenry of New York in that it provides faster, more flexible and more comfortable transportation. . . it also reduces noise, keeps traffic moving faster, and eliminates the danger of wet rails. . ." This was before GM had gone to town with its yellow Truck and Coach subsidiary.

Now that oil is becoming a highpriced fuel, electric mass transit may have a rebirth. But if there was a "conspiracy" in 1936 to rid New York of trolleys, Fiorello La Guardia must have been in on it.

Any more such idiocies, Mr. Cheap-

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

As we all know that May 1 of every year is set aside for Loyalty Day. Most of us are true and loyal Americans, and would do our best to protect our freedom which is a Godgiven thing. It was not just handed to us on a platter. Many in the past have made the supreme sacrifice to retain it. This day is more or less set aside to examine and rededicate ourselves. There is no better way in doing this than to recite the Pledge of Allegiance the way Red Skelton did on his program Jan. 14, 1969. I'll put it in its entirety.

"I remember this one teacher. To me, he was the greatest teacher, a real sage of my time. He had such wisdom.

We were all reciting the Pledge of Allegiance and he walked over. Mr. Lasswell was his name. . . He said, "I have been listening to you boys and girls recite the Pledge of Allegiance all semester and it seems as though it's becoming monotonous to you. If I may, may I recite it and try to explain to you the meaning of each word.

"I - me, an individual a committee of one, Pledge - dedicate all of my worldly to give without self-pity.

Allegiance - my love and my devotion to the flag - our standard, Old Glory, a symbol of freedom. Wherever she waves, there is respect because your loyalty has given her a dignity that shouts freedom is everybodys job.

"And to the Republic - as state in which sovereign power is invested in representatives chosen by the people to govern. And government is the people and its from the people to the leaders, not from the leaders to the people. For which it stands.

'One Nation - meaning, so blessed by God. Indivisible - incapable of being divided. With Liberty - which is freedom and the right of power to live one's own life without threats or fear or some sort of retaliation. "And Justice - the principle or

Since I was a small boy, two states have been added to our country and words have been added to the pledge of Allegiance - "Under God"

Wouldn't it be a pity if someone said, "That's a prayer" and that it be eliminated from the schools too?

Dear Abby:

He yearns to live after 13 long years

DEAR ABBY: How can a man come back to life at 53 after 13 years of life without life? My wife died recently after a long illness, and I've been out of circulation for so long I don't know where to begin making a new life for myself.

I may sound cold and heartless, but now that she is gone, I feel a sense of freedom. You see, she left my bed 13 years ago and never showed me any sign of affection after that, so in my view our marriage ended then. (She thought a man over 40 didn't need a woman to sleep with.)

My ego has been ground down to a pulp publicly and privately more times than I can count. My only source of satisfaction is knowing that I stuck with her until the bitter end without cheating on her once, although I was often tempted.

Now I am free to find a woman who can compensate for all that emptiness. Abby, I am so full of love, and so eager to give it to someone, I can hardly stand

Somewhere there must be a woman who is willing to take on a steady assignment like that. But where do I start looking? I need it now. Thirteen years is long enough. I ask only for one with stamina. Thanks.

DEAR GEORGE: Call your friendsmarried and single -and let them know you are interested in dating. You'll be swamped! Find out what your church and community have to offer in the way of social programs. Get into volunteer work. (That's a good way to meet people with similar interests.) Get out and get going. Some lucky gal has a treat coming.

DEAR ABBY: There is a teacher at school who makes some of us girls sick. He pulls the hair out of his sideburns and eats it.

We would like to know why he does this, and what we can do to make him

NAUSEATED DEAR NAUSEATED: I don't know about humans, but monkeys have been known to pull the hair out of their heads and eat it when they are despondent and frustrated. I think your teacher needs help. DEAR ABBY: In response to an inquiry last summer from a man whose wife had disappeared years before, you advised: "Contact the Salvation Army, Box 3856: Lt. Col. Pauline Eberhart, San Francisco, Cal. They have had remarkable success in locating missing

That gave me an idea. I had been searching through the usual channels for a brother who had been missing for 47 years. No success. So I thought "Why not give it a chance?"

I wrote to the Salvation Army per your suggestion, giving them the necessary information, and they went

Last week they reported that they had been successful, and they forwarded me a photostatic copy of a letter they had received from my lost brother. And in the same mail I also received a letter from him. What a marvelous surprise!

Abby, how can I thank you? L.T. IN SEATTLE

DEAR L.T.: Don't thank me. Thank those wonderful people at the Salvation Army who do so much for so many in every corner of the world.

Although the turnout was considerably more than expected by the volunteer physicians and workers from the Fayette County unit of the American Cancer Society, the clinic was operated smoothly and there was no waiting for the patients. Twelve rooms in the Medical Arts building were used for testing.

A staff of seven Washington C.H. area physicians started administering the digital colon and rectal examinations at 12:30 p.m. and finished the clinic at 5 p.m.

THE TESTS were administered in the colon and rectal area, which is the single most common site for cancer except for the skin. It can sometimes develop to advanced stages without producing any pain or readily visible symptoms.

The results of the test conducted Sunday afternoon for the 417 patients will be compared with those from three samples taken by each adult at home over a three-day period following the clinic test

Each clinic visitor received one kit with which to take samples at home. Complete instructions were provided with the kits.

Following the home tests, the slides will be returned and later be processed at the Fayette Memorial Hospital laboratory. Reports of any positive

AROUND THE FLAG — Camp Fire Girls and Bluebirds are shown at a flag ceremony at a camp session held at Camp Murdock near South Salem. The camping program is a good way for girls to learn and appreciate the out-ofdoors. Day Camp is in June.

Day Camp at Camp Murdock Camp Fire program changed

Spring is here and the girls and adult leaders of the Paint Valley Council of Camp Fire Girls are awaiting the opening of Day Camp at Camp Murdock near South Salem. There will be two sessions: Session I from June 17 to June 21, and Session II from June 24-

The camp program has been changed this year, as other phases of CF activities. In the past, group camping has been the program. That is, each Bluebird and CF adventurer leader has been responsible for taking her own group to camp and planning activities. This program resulted in the girls meeting very few new friends, girls or

Under the new program, girls will be given a place in a 'tribe' with nine other girls of her own age, when she receives her registration. At least one 'buddy' from her regular group will be with her. The 'tribe' will be headed by a chief, an adult volunteer of CF girls, who is trained in camping techniques.

The girls will be working with other adult volunteers in various aspects of the camping program. New skills in games, arts and crafts, nature lore and songs will be taught and the girls will be making new friends. They will also learn that they are part of a working group who will function and enjoy working together. They will, above all, learn self-reliance and gain selfconfidence through the new setup.

This year's camp staff includes Mrs. Frank Sanderson director; Mrs. Paul Edgington, assistant director; and Mrs. Robert Anderson, camp nurse. All others are adult volunteers of the Paint Valley Council.

Mrs. Rollo Marchant is site chairman. Paul Sullivan and other area men are helping to make improvements at the grounds. Trees have been planted and the lodge has been partially renovated. The tebins have been painted and some new ones started, electricity has been installed in the shelter house, and hiking trails have been made through the woods. A play area has been made for the safety of campers, and many other improvements are planned.

There is a need for men to help with the work there. Members of the CF Board, fathers of the girls, or any interested friend of CF is urged to call the CF office if they have a few hours a day to donate to this project.

Camp is a great way for girls to learn more about nature and the out-of-doors. Also CF girls may work on awards and ranks that cannot be done in town. There is much to offer at Camp Murdock. Any Bluebird who has completed the second grade or any Adventurer may attend camp. A camping program for 7th grade Discovery level has also been planned this year.

Registration forms may be picked up at the CF office, or from Mrs. San-

Assessment of economy doubted

AP Business Analyst NEW YORK (AP) — If you share President Nixon's view of the economy you believe this year will be "a good year," next year will be "very good" and 1976 will be "the best ... in history."

That assessment, the first since the President assumed the additional. pivotal role of economic coordinator, was made last Thursday in a speech at Jackson, Miss.

If you share the President's optimism you are also in a minority as measured by the surveys, which have their limitations but which certainly cannot be ignored.

The Survey Research Center's latest findings come with this bleak, broad and very bearish commentary from its economists, who operate the facility as part of the University of Michigan's Institute for Social Research:

'The consumer pessimism measured in the latest survey derives not only from the financial pressure consumers feel because of inflation, but also from psychological stress of uncertainty about the future brought about by adverse news concerning inflation.

shortages, unemployment, and what many people view as failure of the government and its economic policies.

An important reason why consumer pessimism increased so rapidly, the economists said, was "the pervasive and growing lack of faith people have in their government. In the strictly economic area, a good many prominent economists, bankers, union officials and businessmen have declared themselves uncertain of the future. They know the nation still has stamina and know-how and that it continues to fight for economic goals, but they aren't certain they can be reached.

Arthur Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, has recently been emphasizing his fears rather than his hopes, maintaining that inflation threatens to undermine the economy if it isn't contained.

One of the biggest setbacks to the battle of prices was being announced by the Labor Department almost as the President spoke. Worker productivity, it said, took a nosedive in the first quarter of 1974.

Output per manhour of work—a more descriptive way of saying productivity-fell by 5.5 per cent, boosting employers' unit labor costs by 11.3 per cent and putting further pressure on

There is probably not an economist alive who would argue that increased productivity isn't the basic, long-term solution to rising prices. But if it costs more and more to produce an item, it can't be sold for less, or even for the same price

Oldsters celebrate birthdays with marriage in Seattle

SEATTLE (AP) — George Starr will turn 90 Wednesday. Florence Lidren turns 81 the same day. They're celebrating by getting married.

Starr, who retired 14 years ago as chairman of the King County Democratic committee, was supposed to be guest of honor at a birthday party thrown by his old friends.

"I laughed when they told me," Starr said. "I said 'I'm going to get married." So the party was switched to Tuesday. Starr and Mrs. Lidren met briefly 26 years ago. Mrs. Lidren, a widow, wanted a job in the postal service. Starr, who was Seattle postmaster at the time, got her a job at a post office contract station.

But they didn't see each other again until about three months ago, about a month after Starr's second wife died. He initiated the romance by calling Mrs. Lidren to ask if he could pay her a

He began visiting once a week. Each time, they sat on her large davenport and talked. She said that each time they sat a little closer.

"I was shocked." she said. He wasn't all that sure himself. He said he thought it might be a little soon to remarry a third time, only five months after his wife's death.

But the reservations didn't bother one of Mrs. Lidren's sons, the Rev. Clay MOSCOW (AP) - Former world chess champion Boris Spassky postponed the eighth game of his match with Anatoly Karpov in Leningrad today because of illness. The game was delayed until Wednesday.

Gilligan liquor bill still simmers

By ROBERT E. MILLER Associated Press Writer

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) - Gone are the days when liquor used for hospitality at the governor's mansion in Columbus was free samples sent by the companies who made them.

Now the state will pay for it. "The governor has directed me to refuse all samples," said Richard E. Guggenheim, director of the Department of Liquor Control.

The free samples, said Guggenheim, came from manufacturers who dropped them off by the half case. Usually the brands were those the companies were trying to get listed in the state's monopoly stores.

Most of them never got listed, he

Guggenheim said the gifts amounted to 15 to 18 cases a year.

Gov. and Mrs. John J. Gilligan make no private use of it, and they buy whatever liquor is desired for family use, the governor's press secretary, Rober: Tenenbaum, said.

Guggenheim said he drinks little himself, but does like to taste and smell various brands to make certain only quality products are being offered the

"The practice of sending it on out to the mansion has been going on for a long time," said the director. Guggenheim said he didn't know when the practice began.

"If someone insists on making an issue out of it, it will be stopped," he

Roger W. Tracy Jr., a former state representative and a candidate for the Republican nomination for state auditor, raised the issue at a recent Columbus news conference.

Tracy said the $8,289 approved and paid by the state auditor for supplies at the governor's mansion in 1973 included $171.85 that went for wine, beer and Bloody Mary mix.

The GOP candidate said the $171.85 should not have been paid and he accused the governor of living high on the hog at state expense.
Thomas Ferguson, deputy state auditor and a Democratic aspirant for the office now held by his father, Joseph T. Ferguson, said beer expense was overlooked on the voucher since it was listed only with the letters PBR. He said he later learned the letters stood for Pabst Blue Ribbon.

He said he would seek to recover the $46 spent for beer Tenebaum said Gilligan made it a policy when he became governor that no state funds would be used for buying alcohol at the governor's mansion. The mixup over beer notwithstanding, said Tenenbaum, the policy still stands.

Tracy made no issue of liquor from manufacturers being sent to the mansion.

their sixth consecutive victory, the San Diego Padres rallied for five runs in the ninth inning to edge the Philadelphia Phillies 5-4, the Chicago Cubs nipped the Atlanta Braves 4-3 and the New York Mets swept a doubleheader from the San Francisco Giants 6-0 and 6-4.

Gibson, who survived a shaky start in pitching the Cardinals into a virtual first-place tie with Montreal in the NL's East Division, drilled a double in the third inning and scored on a double by Ted Sizemore, giving St. Louis an 8-1

Gibson threw 129 pitches Sunday in posting his first 1974 triumph and first complete game and lowering his earned run average to a still-high 5.63. He walked three and struck out five.

Brett, who set a record last year by homering in each of four consecutive pitching starts, belted a solo shot off Houston's Claude Osteeen and Willie Stargell added a two-run homer in the Pirates's win. Stargell connected in a threerun fourth and relief pitcher Dave Giusti.

Willie McCovey's run-scoring single capped a five-run rally in the ninth inning, giving the Padres their third win in a row and sixth in their last seven games after a 3-13 start.

Ron Hodges slammed a two-run homer in the seventh inning of the nightcap, breaking a 3-3 tie. John Milner also homered for New York while Steve Ontiveros connected for the Giants. The New York Yankee third baseman broke an American League record and tied the major league mark with his 11th home run of April during Sunday's 8-5 loss to Texas in the second game of a doubleheader

The Yankees, who beat the Rangers 11-2 in the opener, have the hottest longball hitter in the majors in Nettles. Somewhat of a disappointment last season after his acquisition from Cleveland, Nettles has become the darling of the New York press and fans.

His blast, a two-run shot off Ferguson Jenkins Sunday, broke the American League record of 10 set in 1969 by Baltimore's Frank Robinson and tied the major league mark set by Pittsburgh's Willie Stargell in 1971.

In other American League games, the Baltimore Orioles nipped the Oakland A's 4-3; the Minnesota Twins topped the Milwaukee Brewers 6-5; the Detroit Tigers beat the Chicago White Sox 6-4; the Boston Red Sox turned back the Kansas City Royals 5-4 in 13 innings and the Cleveland Indians walloped the California Angels 10-2. Miller, who now has won eight times

CARLSBAD, Calif. (AP) - Johnny Miller wasn't expecting to win the Tournament of Champions. Not after that opening 75. And, as late as the last round he was pulling for Buddy Allin, a onetime teammate at Brigham Young.

"He's a gutsy little guy who's had a lot of problems. A real gentleman. I was pulling for him to win," Miller said, smiled, and added: "But I was trying to get in my licks, too."

Miller claimed his fifth pro golf title of the year Sunday with a clutch fourfoot par-saving putt on the last hole that let him avoid a sudden-death playoff with Allin and John Mahaffey.

Miller, the U.S. Open champion and the sensation of the tour this season, was the only man in the elite field of 25 tournament winners who broke par in the windy, pressure-packed final round. He had a 69 and a 280 total. Allin and Mahaffey, now a runner-up three times this season, each had a share of the top spot until they bogeyed the 72nd hole. They tied for second at 281, Mahaffey with a final 70, Allin with Billy Casper was alone at 71-283.

The group at 285 included Gene Littler, Jerry Heard and Hubert Green, a twotime winner this year. Littler and Heard had 71s on the 6,855-yard La Costa Country Club course and Green blew to a 77. Jack Nicklaus, a four-time winner of this tournament and favored to do it again, closed with a 75 and was well back at 287. Lee Trevino trailed the field with a 300 total. For the first time in two decades Arnold Palmer failed to qualify for the tournament that is made up only of regular tour events for the last 12 months. Masters champ Gary Player had a previous commitment and could not compete.

Junior high competes at Upper Arlington

Washington Court House junior high teams participated in the Upper Arlington Invitational, Saturday. The freshman squad came in 10th place out of 15 schools and the seventh and eighth grade team finished in fifth place among 15 teams.

The freshmen scored all of their points in the pole vault. Jeff DeWeese came in second, while teammate Joe Melvin placed third. DeWeese cleared 10'6", but he had one more miss than the winner.

DeWeese also qualified for the 100 yard dash finals. The winning time for the 100 was an amazing 9.9.

In the seventh and eighth grade competition, Jeff Elliott recorded the only first place for Washington. He won the 100 in 10.8.

Other top finishers were Randy Hinkley, second in the pole vault; Gary Huysman, fifth in the high jump; and Jason Rumer, fifth in the mile. Although he came in fifth in the mile, Rumer, who is a seventh grader, set a new school record by running the four laps in 5:12.

Washington's 880 relay team of Elliott, Huysman, Bill Davis and Hinkley came in third place. Davis also qualified for the finals in the 440.

In the first game, the Panthers tied the score in the top of the seventh on a solo home run by catcher Steve Deere. However, the Mustangs pushed across the winning run in the bottom half of the inning. Larry Brigner's suicide squeeze with the bases loaded brought the deciding run across the plate.

In the second game, the Panthers came up with seven runs with two outs in the top of the fourth frame. Phil Skinner and Mark Spears singled and Greg Cobb doubled to score both runners. Tom Riley followed with a double to score Cobb and Randy Reiber homered to bring three more runs

Jayvees split two

Washington C.H. Blue Lion reserves and the Miami Trace Panther jayvees split a Saturday afternoon doubleheader, the first game going to the Lions, 10-8, while the Panthers picked up the nightcap by a 23-7

The story of the day was at least one good inning by the winning ballclub. In the first game Washington C.H. came up with eight runs in the fourth inning to ice their game and Miami Trace shoved 13 men across in the sixth inning to put their game away.

The Lions picked up nine hits en route to their win. Randy Gardner got the win and Ken Helenthal absorbed the loss. In

The 13 run sixth inning saw 16 men come to the plate and most of them got a hit and scored a run. Alan Connor got the win in relief and Dan Alspaugh took the loss. Rodgers and Stewart Foster had doubles for the Panthers while Cliff Dixon added a two-base hit for Washington C.H. Tony Tyree also crakced a triple for Miami Trace.

The split set both teams' season record at an identical 2-5.

CHILLICOTHE - South Central Ohio League tracksters made a very respectable showing at the Unioto Relays, a 10 team event held at Sherman Field Saturday afternoon. However, as was expected, the Adena Warriors, who will be in definite contention for this year's Class A state title, bested the field in the seventh annual meet.

Following the Warriors' 73 points, four of the six SCOL teams entered in the meet took the next four places. Circleville was a close second with 67 points, while Hillsboro finished third, Washington fourth and Unioto came in fifth. Miami Trace and Greenfield both tied for last place with Western of Pike

Three new records were set during the meet. The oldest record to fall was the 1969 sprint medley mark of 3:29.2 held by Athens. Hillsboro ran the course in 3:26.15. Adena set the other two marks, as they were timed in 3:29.5 in the mile relay and 45.1 in the

The Blue Lions' Chuck Wilson was the only Fayette Countian to capture a first place in the meet. Wilson won the long jump, as he leaped 21' 51/2'

Two events, the high hurdles and pole vault, drew added attention from the SCOL coaches. The finalists gave an indication of what the competition will be like in both events in Tuesday's SCOL meet at Circleville. Unioto's Gary Fout bested the field in the hurdles and Circleville's Reggie Radcliff edged Washington's Greg Marti in the pole vault. Results of the Unioto Relays were as

Countdown begins for Kentucky Derby

LOUISVILLE (AP) - There was still question today as to how many 3-yearolds will run in the 100th Kentucky Derby, but there was no doubt that the Woody Stephens-trained entry of Judger and Cannonade would be

"I'm pleased with the way he came off the pace," Stephens said after John M. Olin's Cannonade turned in a blazing stretch run to win the sevenfurlong Stepping Stone Purse at Churchill Downs' opening last Satur-

Just two days earlier Stephens watched Seth Hancock's Judger charge

11/8-mile Blue Grass Stakes at Keeneland to his triumph in the Florida Derby.

"I'm taking it day by day," said Stephens when asked about his plans for the remaining days leading up to the $125,000-added, 11/4-mile Derby Saturday.

Day-by-day was the approach being taken by several owners and trainers in making up their minds as to whether to start their colts in the Derby

A check of the Churchill Downs stable area Sunday turned up seven possible starters and 21 definite starters.

Mrs. D.J.B., Mo.

Dear Mrs. L.:

The fact that sleep dominates your husband's life and obviously affects yours certainly deserves thorough investigation.

There are a great number of neurological disorders and metabolic disturbances that can produce the picture you describe.

For example, a condition known as "narcolepsy" is associated with sudden unex-plained attacks of sleep. The exact cause of this is unknown. Specialists in sleep studies are paying a great deal of attention to the condition you are concerned about. They now can study rapid eye movements (REM) to determine patterns of

Mr. H.V., Penna. Dear Mr. V.:

Most states by law ban the use of over-the-counter or directmail selling of hormone creams, ointments and lotions.

The male sex hormone, testosterone, can be absorbed into the blood stream through the scalp. An unusual concentration of this hormone may. be dangerous to some people.

Most of the mail order ads that have been sent to me protect themselves by saying "hormone-like" and thereby avoid the legal restriction.

The original enthusiasm of doctors for the treatment of pattern baldness with hormones seems to be diminishing because of their ineffectiveness.

Senate receives bill to extend wage-price curbs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Antiinflation legislation authorizing another year of life for wageprice controls is being introduced in the Senate today over the opposition of big business and labor.

A Senate vote on the bill is expected later in the week. The bill's provisions would be retroactive to May 1; current wageprice-control authority expires

April 30—Tuesday night.
Sens. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine Adlai E. Stevenson III, D-Ill., and Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., say it was fear of worsening inflation that prompted them to offer the bill to extend wageprice control authority for another year.

The measure sponsored by Muskie, Stevenson, Javits and 10 others would authorize the President to reimpose wageprice controls on any segment of the economy that presented a danger of serious inflation. The Senate Democratic Caucus has urged action to retain control authority but the bill still faces a stiff fight on the Senate floor. Even if the Senate passes the bill, the House would be expected to require at least a few weeks before acting.

The Senate planned to continue debate today on a bill requiring states to reform their automobile-insurance systems in favor of no-fault, a plan under which an accident victim is compensated by his own insurance company regardless of who caused the

A final vote on no-fault is scheduled Wednesday.

The House faced a vote today on a resolution authorizing another $979,000 for the Judiciary Committee, about half of it earmarked for the investigation of whether President Nixon should be impeached. Also on the House agenda was a compromise bill establishing a Federal Energy Emergency Administration to replace the Federal Energy Office, which was created by presidential order.

House debate is planned for Tuesday on a bill appropriating $2.27 billion for energy research, including $1.5 billion for Atomic Energy.

The bill for the first time brings together all energy-research-anddevelopment funds that in the past had been contained in various agency bills, ranging from the Interior Department to the Atomic Energy Commission.

Also in the energy field, the House Ways and Means Committee is expected to finish work this week on a bill reforming the oil-industry tax struc-

NEW YORK (AP) — A jury that that the former cabinet colleagues were innocent of conspiracy, obstruction of justice and perjury.

Vol. 116 — No. 117

Both were accused of trying to block a Securities and Exchange Commission investigation of financier Robert L. Vesco, in return for Vesco's secret $200,000 cash contribution to President

Nixon's re-election campaign.
Referring to Vesco and his aides, Juror Clarence Brown said after the verdict: "They wanted to get something, but I don't think that Stans and Mitchell ever fell for it."

The jury's forewoman, Sybil Kucharski, said, "We were off in little groups screaming and yelling across the table" when the deliberations began. She said the jury was split even on the conspiracy count, so it turned to the six separate perjury counts against Mitchell and Stans.

"After looking through all the perjury charges, the rest was easy," Miss Kucharski said. "We figured there couldn't be any conspiracy if there was no perjury."

The verdict brought a smile to the face of the normally undemonstrative Mitchell. But it brought no legal surcease. He faces trial in Washington at a still unset date on almost identical charges in connection with the cover-up of the Watergate break-in.

Leon Jaworski, the Watergate special prosecutor, still is studying part of the Nixon campaign financing operation which Stans headed.

"Our faith was resting with a very, very fine jury," Mitchell told a news conference in the U.S. Courthouse. 'They were a cross section of the people and they were representative of

"If there is one place I am firmly convinced you can get justice, it's from the American people. I have great faith in America and that's why I love this

firmed." In Washington, Deputy White House Press Secretary Gerald Warren said of President Nixon: "The President was very pleased for the two men and for their families." Sen. Sam J. Ervin, D-N.C., chairman of the Senate Watergate committee, said he sees no connection between the verdict and future Watergate cases.

'Each case stands on its own bottom," Vesco, who was indicted with Stans and Mitchell and lives in exile in Costa Rica, called the verdict the "first fair verdict I've heard in a long time." The chief prosecutor, Asst. U.S. Atty. John R. Wing, was deeply disappointed. Asked how he felt about the verdict, he replied: 'Rotten! If we could have gotten Vesco back it would have been different. It was absolutely not a waste. When there's evidence that people committed a crime, those crimes should be investigated and prosecuted."

Vesco fled the country in the midst of an SEC investigation of his corporate activities and all efforts to bring him back failed.

Mitchell and Stans were charged with conspiring to obstruct an SEC fraud investigation of Vesco, who has corporate interests in such diverse locales as Hong Kong, Beirut and the

TV address scheduled tonight

Nixon to present impeachment views

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Nixon will make a nationally televised and broadcast address at 9 p.m. EDT today to announce his response to a House Judiciary Committee subpoena and "to disclose other decisions in relation to the Watergate matter," the White House said.

Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren, in announcing plans for Nixon's prime time address to the nation, refused to say what Nixon's response would be to the committee's subpoena for 42 presidential conversations.

And Warren also refused to elaborate on what he meant by "other decisions" the President has made.

But his wording indicated Nixon had settled upon a course intended to blunt further requests and subpoenas for White House tapes.

Indications were that Nixon would disclose he was ready to give the committee, which now is considering impeachment resolutions, a set of edited transcripts of the conversations, rather than the tapes themselves.

But White House officials continued to refuse to say precisely what would be given the committee, or to say whether Nixon would propose a method for the committee to verify authenticity of the transcripts.

Nixon advisers, seeking ways to emphasize what they described as the massive nature of the response, were considering the possibility of stacking the transcripts on the President's desk during the television address.

The White House said Nixon reached his decision Sunday and was considering a nationwide broadcast to disclose it. The White House refused to confirm news reports that Nixon had decided on the broadcast.

As the week began, two top Republicans said it would be inadequate for Nixon to turn over transcripts but not subpoenaed tape recordings to the House Judiciary Committee. That view was taken by former Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson and Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., in separate television interviews Sunday.

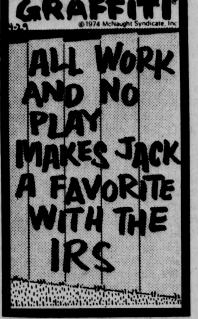

Nixon spent much of the weekend at his Camp David, Md., retreat, working on his response. He had scheduled his return for today but flew back unexpectedly by helicopter Sunday night.

Sources at the White House began putting out word Friday that the President might make a television address Monday night. The subject is certain to be the escalating demands for material from White House files.

successful district conference over the weekend hosted by the Washington Rotary Club at the Kings Island Inn, near Cincinnati.

District Gov. Robert Haigler's theme for the past year has been "Enjoy Rotary More in '74" and those at the conference did just that as they attended business sessions, heard interesting and inspiring speakers, enjoyed social events ending with a formal dance to the music of Les Elgart and his band Saturday night. The conference ended Sunday afternoon.

Six Washington C.H. Rotary Club members won prizes in the golf outing held Friday at the Jack Nicklaus Golf Center. They were Howard Miller, La Verne Haugen, Carl Elberfeld, the Rev. Mark Dove, Carl Mason and Dr. Jack

MARCIA SEIFRIED, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Seifried, had an important part in the Saturday morning session when she described her stay in Finland last year as a Rotary Club exchange student. Students going to other countries for this year's stay were introduced and 20 Rotary exchange students, including Walter Ayub, of Washington Senior High School, also took part in the program.

Also during the Saturday morning meeting, Toby Pearson, of the London Rotary Club, presented a check for $13,267.85 to Vince Heidler, president of the Xenia Rotary Club, for use in that tornado-ravaged city. That total, with more yet to come, was contributed by Rotarians in District 667 in a campaign established by Peason.

Emotional highlight of the weekend conference was the Saturday luncheon address by Lt. Col. William Baughn, a prisoner of war in North Vietnam for six years prior to his release in March, 1973. Col. Baughn, a Piqua native now stationed at Maxwell Air Force Base in Alabama, told the audience "we never lost our faith in our country" and that even in the worst of times the prisoners of war retained their sense of humor.

> PHIL GROVER, president of the Washington C.H. Rotary Club, acted as moderator Saturday for a panel discussion "Crisis of Confusion in Fuel, Food and Finance." James Slack, Dayton division manager for the Standard Oil Co., gave the oil companies' side of the energy crisis. He said that if the government would take over the oil companies as has been suggested, that this country would take a big step down the road to socialism.

Ken Reish, associate dean of the Ohio University college of agriculture, told Rotarians that "food in the United States is still the biggest bargain in the world." He emphasized the potential of research to increase grain and livestock production in order to alleviate the possibility of famine that has been predicted for many parts of the world.

"Lack of fiscal responsibility on the part of the federal government is one of the prime causes of the current inflation," according to panelist Robert E. Hall, past president of the Ohio Bankers Association. He said inflation is the No. 1 problem in the nation today. The Sunday program concluded with the governor's breakfast, a church and memorial service conducted by Past District Gov. Rev. Charles Messmer and Sunday luncheon speaker Mary McBride, comedy writer, whose topic was "Give Us This Day Our Daily Wit."

Fight injury, larcenies reported during weekend

A Washington C.H. man reportedly was struck on the head with a tire iron in a fight, a Williamsport man was arrested on a $300 bad check charge, and a Millwood Avenue resident reported to police a broken rear window in her house.

Sheriff's Department reported the larceny of two socket sets from a Fayette County man's truck and a purse stolen from a Jeffersonville girl.

Herman Payton, 217 N. Fayette St., said he was struck on the head with a tire iron in a fight 2 p.m. Saturday in the 200 block of East Street. Payton was taken to Fayette Memorial Hospital where he was treated for a lacerated left eyebrow and released, police reported. A Williamsport man who allegedly passed a bad check at Craig's Department Store, 121 E. Court St., was charged with check fraud stemming from a private warrant issued by Craig's. Ted Riggin, 57, is accused of passing the bad check for $300 Feb. 9.

Archibald Cox. He was interviewed on NBC's "Meet the Press."

Asked why he felt the possibility of an indictable offense against Nixon was "close," Richardson said:

What would bother me is the tern. The direct answer is I don't think that the evidence is sufficient in any given situation: Milk, ITT, cover-up of Watergate, to directly implicate the President. But the cumulative pattern of these things surrounding the President, in each case involving somebody next to him in responsibility, creates a really troublesome question. "A failure on his part now to fully meet the requests for tapes justifies an adverse inference on this very question."

Javits, on CBS' "Face the Nation," said that turning over transcripts likely would be viewed as inadequate. He also said that if the House votes an impeachment, Nixon should step down temporarily while he is on trial in the Senate.

Last week the Judiciary Committee voted 34 to 4 to grant a White House request for five more days. Originally the deadline was last Thursday.

Seek to avert execution of leftists

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) - The military government is considering appeals to commute the death sentences given five leftists who could be executed by firing squads in the next 48

The Roman Catholic bishop of Rancagua province addressed a plea for clemency to the junta president, Gen. Augusto Pinochet.

Another appeal came from Joseph P. Morray of Corvallis, Ore., chairman of the Fair Trial Committee for Chilean Political Prisoners, based in the United States. He handed his petition Sunday to an officer in San Fernando, 100 miles south of Santiago, where the men were tried Friday.

The officer told Morray the garrison commander, Col. Jose Castro, would decide "within several days" whether the sentences would be carried out. There is no appeal beyond the garrison commander

Castro told defense attorneys, "as a Roman Catholic, I have immense respect for human life," and promised to review the death sentences "calmly and with much attention.'

Latin American ambassadors attending a recent conference of the Organization of American States in Atlanta, Ga., sent an urgent appeal earlier to the junta to stop executions.

The five condemned men were found guilty of trying to organize armed guerrilla groups with the ultimate goal of establishing a Communist dic-tatorship in Chile. Two are 20-year-old university students, two were militant leaders of peasant groups and the fifth headed the land reform program in the San Fernando area.

Military courts condemned at least 96 persons to death immediately after the coup last September that ousted the late President Salvador Allende, but Gen. Pinochet reportedly ordered executions stopped in mid-January.

Samphan emerges as Red leader

WASHINGTON (AP) - A Khmer Rouge rebel leader who is treated with all the deference of a chief of state by Peking is emerging from the shadowy jungles of Cambodia.

He is Khieu Samphan, a lean, boy-faced, 44-year-old French-educated Marxist, once marked for execution because of Communist activities by Prince Norodom Sihanouk, the deposed leader of Cambodia now living as an exile in the Peoples Republic of China.

Samphan has an array of titles— member of the Politburo of the Khmer (Cambodian) Communist party, acting prime minister, defense minister and chief of staff of the Khmer liberation armed forces.

He is part of a massive program estimated by U.S. experts to be costing Peking at least $500 million a year, furnishing the Khmer Rouge movement with arms, supplies and a government complete with ministers.

Although Samphan is war minister and chief of staff, he also has been equipped with a Chinese jet airliner and currently is visiting Albania, Algiers and Romania with two other highlevel associates.

American officials say it is possible that at some later date Samphan may be the man who will negotiate a set-tlement of the Cambodian war with the Lon Nol government.

But Chinese Communist leaders now appear to be signaling to all concerned persons that someone besides Sihanouk speaks for the Communist areas of Cambodia.

There was a Communist uprising in Battambang province of Cambodia in 1967. After it was put down Sihanouk declared "I had 1,000 Khmer Rouge killed and never lost a night's sleep.'

Samphan and two associates, Hu Nim and Hou Yuon, disappeared after the uprising. When they reappeared in the Khmer Rouge movement after Sihanouk was deposed, they became known as "the three ghosts."

Wave of marriage contracts under study by professors

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)-A Case Western Reserve University professor says today's brides and grooms often don't say "I do" until they have said what "I'll do" and "You'll do" through a lawyer.

Sometimes the couples even spell out timetables for who makes the bed and who takes out the garbage, Marvin B. Sussman says. Sussman, director of the university's Institute on the Family and the Bureaucratic Society, has a grant to study the new wave in marriage contracts. He advertised for couples willing to submit copies of the contracts for use in the study. Working with him are Hugh

A. Ross, a professor in Case Western's Law School, and Betty E. Cogswell, a University of North Carolina professor. The ultradetailed pacts sometimes are called joke contracts because they virtually are unworkable, Sussman says. But he says others are serious in detailing plans for children, privacy, housekeeping tasks, money, sex—and how to end the contract if it comes to Some may permit infidelity, others may make it grounds for divorce, he says. Older newlyweds may set up protections for money and property from previous marriages or specify how to handle inheritances relative to previous families. Under one contract he has seen, the professor says, each party was to bear separate names. It also spelled out whose family name was to be used by any children.

There haven't been enough of the contracts yet to know what provisions will be upheld by courts, the professor says, so one of the questions the study is to help answer is whether they are

Sussman says the discussion of a contract after marriage could clarify what each partner expects and thus save a marriage.

And for those only at the engagement level, he says, it can uncover hidden conflicts and prevent a marriage that shouldn't be joined.

Abundant energy—and its use

Thanks to the stimulus of the fuel shortage it is now a widely accepted position that society must strive to develop clean, abundant energy sources. This is regarded by many as a kind of first principle. It is seen as a necessary step to replace the dwindling reserves of fossil fuels upon which we have mainly depended over the past many decades.

The importance of this is not lessened by recognizing that abundant energy will not be a panacea for the world's social and economic problems. The key lies in proper use of that energy for the benefit of mankind.

This point has been cogently made by John P. Holdren, an assistant professor of energy and resources at the University of California in Berkeley. Speaking of those envisioned sources of clean, abundant energy as not an end in . themselves but as means to an end, he asked the other day: "If we used these tools to render the world into a global Los Angeles, would many of us be pleased with the result?"

The need is for energy sources that will supply a major portion of the world's requirements far into the future. Holdren sees three possibilities: solar energy, nuclear fission and nuclear fusion. He considers solar energy the best of the three because the potential is almost unlimited, environmental harm could be held to a minimum, and harnessing the sun is technically

But like most others who have given thought to this matter Holdren also thinks nuclear power will be needed, at very least as a sup-plement and possibly as a major source of electrical power generation. He leans toward fusion as being less dangerous and environmentally cleaner than the fission process, but notes that commercial fusion power before the year 2000 is unlikely.

These three promising energy sources are mentioned as a reminder that means of obtaining cheap, clean, abundant energy to replace that from traditional sources are within our grasp. The matter of how this energy is to be used remains.

A University of California news release on Prof. Holdren's views summed up thus: "The primary question, he believes, is not whether we can achieve abundant energy, but what sort of society will we create with it."

That is a subject to which all thinking persons had better address

THESE DAYS . . . by John Chamberlain

In defense of General Motors

Boy, what a difference a couple of 'make the cheapest of cheap-shot generations make when it comes to rewriting — and continuing to distort our history.

Back in the early years of the century, no self-respecting muckraking newspaper or magazine had a good word to say about the electric trolley systems of the country, or the steam railroads. The trolleys had been sneaked over on municipalities at great cost by traction ring magnates such as Charles T. Yerkes of Chicago who had bribed legislators in order to get franchises and then unloaded their decrepit rolling stock for highly in-flated sums. (A "conspiracy" to replace the horse?)

The "traction ring" was no better than the "railroad octopus," against which Sen. Hiram Johnson of California ran every six years for of-fice. This was "liberal" history as it used to be written.

Of course, the electric trolley and the steam railroad did serve the general public, the liberal historians notwithstanding. But when the downtown areas began to get crowded back in the '20s, trolleys and the steam railroad became uneconomical. The trolley couldn't reach out into all the suburbs; the steam railroad couldn't come into big cities through underground tunnels without choking the passengers with flagrantly non-ecological smoke.

With the trolley lines falling into bankruptcy, something had to be done. Detroit had an answer: the Ford Model T and Model A. and Bill Knudsen's Chevrolet were there to take the people home to the expanding suburbs or to meet the new electrified commuter trains.

IT ALL HAPPENED because of the new fluid patterns of life in the '20s of this century. No conspiracy what-soever was involved. Yet an antimonopoly subcommittee of the U.S. Senate has just listened to an alleged historian named Bradford C. Snell charges about a conspiracy supposedly masterminded by the General Motors Corp. to "destroy"; our old urban and interurban electric trolley systems in order to replace them with buses.

Just for idiotic lagniappe, alleged historian Snell also sneaked in some words about GM's "plotting" to replace the steam engine and the catenaryoverhead electric locomotive with diesel locomotives. And, though it had nothing whatsoever to do with antimonopoly in America, the aforementioned Snell accused GM of using its Opel plant in Germany to make war equipment for the Nazis.

The unconscionable thing about the Snell idiocies is that they were printed up and put out by the government. Now ordinarily our big corporations take the most unfair allegations lying down. They had allowed Ralph Nader and the so-called consumerists to malign them without stint over all these years of "liberalism."

A shell-shocked GM had had to wait for years for Sen. Abe Ribicoff's committee to contradict Ralph Nader on the supposed danger of the Corvair rear-engine car, and by the time the Corvair was given a clean bill of health, it had been destroyed as Detroit's answer to the comparable Volkswagen. I have never understood why GM didn't sue Nader for a billion or so in trolley lines, for they had mostly disappeared before GM got into the Mayor Fiorello La Guardia speaking back in 1936. Said Fiorello: "Bus eliminates the danger of wet rails. . .'

Now that oil is becoming a highpriced fuel, electric mass transit may have a rebirth. But if there was a 'conspiracy" in 1936 to rid New York of trolleys, Fiorello La Guardia must have been in on it.

Any more such idiocies, Mr. Cheap-

property custodians. It couldn't have conspired to get rid of the electric business of making buses. Listen to New York's very liberal operation in place of trolleys is not only a boon to the citizenry of New York in that it provides faster, more flexible and more comfortable tran-sportation. . . it also reduces noise, keeps traffic moving faster, and This was before GM had gone to town with its yellow Truck and Coach sub-

EDITOR, RECORD-HERALD:

As we all know that May 1 of every year is set aside for Loyalty Day. Most of us are true and loyal Americans, and would do our best to protect our freedom which is a Godgiven thing.

It was not just handed to us on a platter. Many in the past have made the supreme sacrifice to retain it.

This day is more or less set aside to examine and rededicate ourselves. There is no better way in doing this than to recite the Pledge of Allegiance the way Red Skelton did on his program Jan. 14, 1969. I'll put it in its entirety. "I remember this one teacher. To me, he was the greatest teacher, a real sage of my time. He had such wisdom. "We were all reciting the Pledge of Allegiance and he walked over. Mr. Lasswell was his name. . . He said, "I have been listening to you boys and girls recite the Pledge of Allegiance all may I recite it and try to explain to you the meaning of each word. "I - me, an individual a committee of one, Pledge - dedicate all of my worldly to give without self-pity.

"Allegiance - my love and my devotion to the flag - our standard, Old Glory, a symbol of freedom. Wherever she waves, there is respect because your loyalty has given her a dignity that shouts freedom is everybodys job.

DEAR ABBY: How can a man come back to life at 53 after 13 years of life without life? My wife died recently after a long illness, and I've been out of circulation for so long I don't know where to begin making a new life for myself.

I may sound cold and heartless, but now that she is gone, I feel a sense of freedom. You see, she left my bed 13 years ago and never showed me any sign of affection after that, so in my view our marriage ended then. (She thought a man over 40 didn't need a woman to sleep with.)

My ego has been ground down to a pulp publicly and privately more times than I can count. My only source of satisfaction is knowing that I stuck with her until the bitter end without cheating on her once, although I was often tempted.

Now I am free to find a woman who can compensate for all that emptiness. Abby, I am so full of love, and so eager to give it to someone, I can hardly stand

Somewhere there must be a woman who is willing to take on a steady assignment like that. But where do start looking? I need it now. Thirteen years is long enough. I ask only for one with stamina. Thanks.

Find out what your church and community have to offer in the way of social programs. Get into volunteer work. (That's a good way to meet people with similar interests.) Get out and get going. That gave me an idea. I had been searching through the usual channels for a brother who had been missing for 47 years. No success. So I thought: Why not give it a chance?'

417 attend free cancer clinic

An overwhelming turnout of 417 Fayette County residents attended a free colon and rectal cancer detection clinic Sunday afternoon in the Medical Arts Building, Willard St.

Although the turnout was considerably more than expected by the volunteer physicians and workers from the Fayette County unit of the American Cancer Society, the clinic was operated smoothly and there was no waiting for the patients. Twelve rooms in the Medical Arts building were used for testing.

A staff of seven Washington C.H. area physicians started administering the digital colon and rectal examinations at 12:30 p.m. and finished the clinic at 5 p.m.

THE TESTS were administered in the colon and rectal area, which is the single most common site for cancer except for the skin. It can sometimes develop to advanced stages without producing any pain or readily visible symptoms.

The results of the test conducted Sunday afternoon for the 417 patients will be compared with those from three samples taken by each adult at home over a three-day period following the clinic test

Each clinic visitor received one kit with which to take samples at home. Complete instructions were provided with the kits.

Following the home tests, the slides will be returned and later be processed at the Fayette Memorial Hospital laboratory. Reports of any positive ceiling prices. "I don't think there should be any question about paying the $2,500 fine. Everyone of them should have to pay and pay hard. Considering the hardship their unfair prices placed on the American consumer and the damage it has done to our already inflated economy, the penalty ought to be a lot stiffer," Harsha asserted.

"Unfortunately, the whole country is having to pay the penalty for criminal overpricing of energy supplies. Overcharging farmers for propane and other fuels, for example, has led to higher food prices. Gouging the truck drivers at the diesel fuel stops has also contributed to increased rates for them and the products they transport.

"It is a vicious cycle, and under these circumstances, energy price gouging is a totally vicious act. It is particularly disgusting when the rest of the country willingly joined in conservation efforts which helped us to avoid a severely crippling energy shortage during the oil embargo. The investigations had better not stop until all violators are fully prosecuted to the highest letter of the law and until these offenders learn the American public will not tolerate such abuse," Harsha concluded.

The gifts and donations came from people in Emporia, Jarratt, Stony Creek, Greensville County and western Sussex County.

Spring is here and the girls and adult leaders of the Paint Valley Council of Camp Fire Girls are awaiting the opening of Day Camp at Camp Murdock near South Salem. There will be two sessions: Session I from June 17 to June 21, and Session II from June 24-

The camp program has been changed this year, as other phases of CF activities. In the past, group camping has been the program. That is, each Bluebird and CF adventurer leader has been responsible for taking her own group to camp and planning activities. This program resulted in the girls meeting very few new friends, girls or

Under the new program, girls will be given a place in a 'tribe' with nine other girls of her own age, when she receives her registration. At least one 'buddy' from her regular group will be with her. The 'tribe' will be headed by a chief, an adult volunteer of CF girls, who is trained in camping techniques.

The girls will be working with other adult volunteers in various aspects of the camping program. New skills in games, arts and crafts, nature lore and songs will be taught and the girls will be making new friends. They will also learn that they are part of a working group who will function and enjoy working together. They will, above all, learn self-reliance and gain selfconfidence through the new setup.

Assessment of economy doubted

By JOHN CUNNIFF

AP Business Analyst NEW YORK (AP) - If you share President Nixon's view of the economy you believe this year will be "a good" year," next year will be "very good" and 1976 will be "the best ... in history."

That assessment, the first since the President assumed the additional, pivotal role of economic coordinator, was made last Thursday in a speech at Jackson, Miss.

If you share the President's op-timism you are also in a minority as measured by the surveys, which have their limitations but which certainly cannot be ignored.

The Survey Research Center's latest findings come with this bleak, broad and very bearish commentary from its economists, who operate the facility as part of the University of Michigan's Institute for Social Research:

"The consumer pessimism measured in the latest survey derives not only from the financial pressure consumers feel because of inflation, but also from psychological stress of uncertainty about the future brought about by adverse news concerning inflation,

shortages, unemployment, and what many people view as failure of the government and its economic policies."

An important reason why consumer pessimism increased so rapidly, the economists said, was "the pervasive and growing lack of faith people have in their government."

In the strictly economic area, a good many prominent economists, bankers, union officials and businessmen have declared themselves uncertain of the future. They know the nation still has stamina and know-how and that it continues to fight for economic goals, but they aren't certain they can be reached.

Arthur Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, has recently been emphasizing his fears rather than his hopes, maintaining that inflation threatens to undermine the economy if it isn't contained.

One of the biggest setbacks to the battle of prices was being announced by the Labor Department almost as the President spoke. Worker productivity, it said, took a nosedive in the first quarter of 1974.

Output per manhour of work-a more descriptive way of saying productivity-fell by 5.5 per cent, boosting employers' unit labor costs by 11.3 per cent and putting further pressure on There is probably not an economist alive who would argue that increased productivity isn't the basic, long-term solution to rising prices. But if it costs more and more to produce an item, it

Starr, who retired 14 years ago as chairman of the King County Democratic committee, was supposed to be guest of honor at a birthday party thrown by his old friends.

Starr and Mrs. Lidren met briefly 26 years ago. Mrs. Lidren, a widow, wanted a job in the postal service. Starr, who was Seattle postmaster at the time, got her a job at a post office contract station.

By The Associated Press Syrian patrols raided an Israeli forward position on the Golan Heights before dawn today and "captured arms and ammunition left behind by fleeing enemy soldiers," the Syrian command reported.

A communique said the patrols all returned safely but made no mention of Israeli casualties. It said the target was Rasm el Khawaled, believed to be on the edge of the 300-square-mile salient Israel captured in the October war.

the days when liquor used for hospitality at the governor's mansion in Columbus was free samples sent by the companies who made them.

Now the state will pay for it.
"The governor has directed me to refuse all samples," said Richard E. Guggenheim, director of the Department of Liquor Control.

The free samples, said Guggenheim, came from manufacturers who dropped them off by the half case. Usually the brands were those the companies were trying to get listed in the state's monopoly stores.

Most of them never got listed, he said.

Guggenheim said the gifts amounted to 15 to 18 cases a year.

Gov. and Mrs. John J. Gilligan make no private use of it, and they buy whatever liquor is desired for family use, the governor's press secretary, Rober'. Tenenbaum, said.

Guggenheim said he drinks little himself, but does like to taste and smell various brands to make certain only quality products are being offered the

Roger W. Tracy Jr., a former state representative and a candidate for the Republican nomination for state auditor, raised the issue at a recent Columbus news conference.

Tracy said the $8,289 approved and paid by the state auditor for supplies at the governor's mansion in 1973 included $171.85 that went for wine, beer and Bloody Mary mix.

The GOP candidate said the $171.85 should not have been paid and he accused the governor of living high on the hog at state expense.

Thomas Ferguson, deputy state auditor and a Democratic aspirant for the office now held by his father, Joseph T. Ferguson, said beer expense was overlooked on the voucher since it was listed only with the letters PBR. He

Gibson threw 129 pitches Sunday in posting his first 1974 triumph and first complete game and lowering his earned run average to a still-high 5.63. He walked three and struck out five.

Graig Nettles socks 11th April home run

Aaron? No, Graig Nettles. Nettles has done something that even Aaron has not been able to accomplish yet.

The New York Yankee third baseman broke an American League record and tied the major league mark with his 11th home run of April during Sunday's 8-5 loss to Texas in the second game of a doubleheader.

The Yankees, who beat the Rangers 11-2 in the opener, have the hottest longball hitter in the majors in Nettles. Somewhat of a disappointment last season after his acquisition from Cleveland, Nettles has become the darling of the New York press and fans.

His blast, a two-run shot off Ferguson Jenkins Sunday, broke the American League record of 10 set in 1969 by Baltimore's Frank Robinson and tied the major league mark set by Pittsburgh's Willie Stargell in 1971.

In other American League games, the Baltimore Orioles nipped the Oakland A's 4-3; the Minnesota Twins topped the Milwaukee Brewers 6-5; the Detroit Tigers beat the Chicago White Sox 6-4; the Boston Red Sox turned back the Kansas City Royals 5-4 in 13 innings and the Cleveland Indians walloped the California Angels 10-2.

CARLSBAD, Calif. (AP) - Johnny Miller wasn't expecting to win the Tournament of Champions. Not after that opening 75. And, as late as the last round he was pulling for Buddy Allin, a onetime teammate at Brigham Young.

"He's a gutsy little guy who's had a lot of problems. A real gentleman. I was pulling for him to win," Miller said, smiled, and added: "But I was trying to get in my licks, too."

Miller claimed his fifth pro golf title of the year Sunday with a clutch fourfoot par-saving putt on the last hole that let him avoid a sudden-death playoff with Allin and John Mahaffey.

Miller, the U.S. Open champion and the sensation of the tour this season. was the only man in the elite field of 25 tournament winners who broke par in the windy, pressure-packed final round. He had a 69 and a 280 total.

Billy Casper was alone at 71-283. The group at 285 included Gene Littler, Jerry Heard and Hubert Green, a twotime winner this year. Littler and Heard had 71s on the 6,855-yard La Costa Country Club course and Green blew to a 77.

Jack Nicklaus, a four-time winner of this tournament and favored to do it again, closed with a 75 and was well back at 287. Lee Trevino trailed the field with a 300 total. For the first time in two decades Arnold Palmer failed to qualify for the tournament that is made up only of regular tour events for the last 12 months. Other top finishers were Randy Hinkley, second in the pole vault; Gary Huysman, fifth in the high jump; and Jason Rumer, fifth in the mile. Although he came in fifth in the mile, Rumer, who is a seventh grader, set a new school record by running the four aps in 5:12.

Washington's 880 relay team of Elliott, Huysman, Bill Davis and Hinkley came in third place. Davis also qualified for the finals in the 440.

Panthers came back to take the nightcap 13-6. In the first game, the Panthers tied the score in the top of the seventh on a solo home run by catcher Steve Deere. However, the Mustangs pushed across the winning run in the bottom half of the inning. Larry Brigner's suicide squeeze with the bases loaded brought the deciding run across the plate.

In the second game, the Panthers came up with seven runs with two outs in the top of the fourth frame. Phil Skinner and Mark Spears singled and Greg Cobb doubled to score both runners. Tom Riley followed with a double to score Cobb and Randy Reiber homered to bring three more runs

Jayvees split two

Washington C.H. Blue Lion reserves and the Miami Trace Panther jayvees split a Saturday afternoon doubleheader, the first game going to the Lions, 10-8, while the Panthers picked up the nightcap by a 23-7 margin.

The story of the day was at least one good inning by the winning ballclub. In the first game Washington C.H. came up with eight runs in the fourth inning to ice their game and Miami Trace shoved 13 men across in the sixth inning to put their game away.

The Lions picked up nine hits en route to their win. Randy Gardner got the win and Ken Helenthal absorbed the loss. In record at an identical 2-5.

CHILLICOTHE - South Central Ohio League tracksters made a very respectable showing at the Unioto Relays, a 10 team event held at Sherman Field Saturday afternoon. However, as was expected, the Adena Warriors, who will be in definite contention for this year's Class A state title, bested the field in the seventh annual meet.

Following the Warriors' 73 points, four of the six SCOL teams entered in the meet took the next four places. Circleville was a close second with 67 points, while Hillsboro finished third, Washington fourth and Unioto came in fifth. Miami Trace and Greenfield both tied for last place with Western of Pike

Three new records were set during the meet. The oldest record to fall was the 1969 sprint medley mark of 3:29.2 held by Athens. Hillsboro ran the course in 3:26.15. Adena set the other two marks, as they were timed in 3:29.5 in the mile relay and 45.1 in the long jump, as he leaped 21' 5½".

Two events, the high hurdles and pole vault, drew added attention from the SCOL coaches. The finalists gave an indication of what the competition will be like in both events in Tuesday's SCOL meet at Circleville. Unioto's Gary Fout bested the field in the hurdles and Circleville's Reggie Radcliff edged Washington's Greg Marti in the pole vault. Results of the Unioto Relays were as

4-4, serves as a better trump holding than a nine-card suit. This hand from the international team trials in 1966 provides an example.

If the hand is played at spades or notrump, declarer makes twelve tricks, period. At one table North-South got to seven spades, automatically down one, and at the other six tables the final contract was either six spades or six notrump.

At only two tables was the excellent contract of seven diamonds reached. Played in diamonds, the grand slam was foolproof. All that declarer had to do was ruff a club in dummy to produce a thirteenth trick on top of the twelve he had started with. The thirteenth trick was not available in any contract but diamonds.

The advantage of playing the 4-4 fit rather than the 6-3 fit is that declarer makes an extra trump trick. With diamonds as trump, he makes five diamonds and six spades, but with spades as trumps, he makes only four diamonds and six spades. The eight-card suit serves more efficiently than the nine-card came out my fiance, now my overwork can, indeed, be a husband, was given the nickname "Sleepy." Even at that time he could fall asleep at the drop of a hat.

This has progressed through the years to the point where sleep dominates his whole life. I am fearful that he will fall asleep while driving the car.

It is true that he works very long hours and probably has a right to his fatigue. My concern, however, is that there may be some other reasons for his abnormal need for sleep. Mrs. D.J.B., Mo.

Dear Mrs. L.:

The fact that sleep dominates your husband's life and obviously affects yours certainly deserves thorough vestigation.

There are a great number of neurological disorders and metabolic disturbances that can produce the picture you describe.

For example, a condition known as "narcolepsy" is associated with sudden unexplained attacks of sleep. The exact cause of this is unknown. Specialists in sleep studies are paying a great deal of attention to the condition you are concerned about. They now can study rapid eye movements (REM) to determine patterns of

Sometimes small amounts of stimulating drugs are used with great success.

I recently saw a mail order ad that claimed to cure baldness with hormone ointment. Even though the cost is high I would try it if I thought it would help my baldness. Mr. H.V., Penna.

Dear Mr. V.:

Most states by law ban the use of over-the-counter or directmail selling of hormone creams, ointments and lotions. The male sex hormone, testosterone, can be absorbed into the blood stream through the scalp. An unusual concentration of this hormone may. be dangerous to some people. Most of the mail order ads that have been sent to me protect themselves by saying "hormone-like" and thereby avoid the legal restriction.
